

IT'S AGAINST THE LAW TO RIDE DIRT BIKES AND ATVS ON DC'S STREETS

Minibikes, dirt bikes, all terrain vehicles, and other motorized bikes and multi-wheeled vehicles pose a danger to pedestrians and other motorists and are illegal to operate on DC's streets.

If you see one being ridden on public space, call or text the police. You could be eligible for a reward of $250 if your information leads to the recovery of an ATV that is being used on public space.

No one individual or agency working alone can prevent crime. It takes police and citizens working in partnership. The District of Columbia's community policing strategy provides many ways for police and communities to work together to prevent crime and build safer neighborhoods. These include regular Police Service Area meetings in your community, citizen patrols and more. All Terrain Vehicles don't belong on city streets.

Motorized three and four-wheel vehicles, or ATVs, and other motorized bikes are illegal to operate in the District of Columbia. They are dangerous to other motorists, bikers, pedestrians, and property and are meant to be driven off-road on a closed course.

What is an ATV?

An all-terrain vehicle (ATV) also known as a quad, quad bike, three-wheeler or four-wheeler is defined by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) as a vehicle that travels on low-pressure tires with a seat that is straddled by the operator along with handlebars for steering control. As the name implies, it is designed to handle a wider variety of terrain than most other vehicles. Although it is a street-legal vehicle in some countries, it is not street-legal in most states and provinces of the United States, Australia, or Canada.

What is a Dirt Bike?

A dirt bike is an off-road motorcycle that is built to be lightweight, powerful, fast, and nimble. Several variations of the dirt bike exist for different purposes, from racing to touring and beyond, and the size and function of the dirt bike depends not only on the type of riding being done, but also the person riding the particular dirt bike. Just about all dirt bikes feature knobby or semi-knobby tires, which have a tread aggressive enough to handle varied terrain — from mud to rocks, from smooth dirt roads to inclining and declining trails.

How are ATVs and Dirt bikes being used in the District of Columbia?

Riders of ATVs and dirt bikes are openly breaking the law on DC streets. These riders do all kinds of tricks such as wheelies and riding on the sidewalks. ATVs and dirt bikes are illegal to ride on public streets in the District of Columbia, but MPD's chase policy prohibits officers from pursuing the vehicles. In fact, those familiar with the problem say that some riders come from other areas on stolen dirt bikes and ATVs because DC is known for its no chase policy.

What Dangers Do ATVs and Dirt Bikes Pose?

Carolyn Anderson never knew her son was riding an ATV, until the call came to tell her that 14-year-old James had been in accident and was being rushed to the hospital. "I screamed," Anderson told The TODAY Show. It was like a primal scream. I intuitively just knew... James died before Anderson and her husband could get to the hospital. The Andersons learned later that James had been riding an all-terrain vehicle with a friend's family in New Hampshire and that he had lost control of the 700-pound vehicle and crashed into a tree.

A 25-year-old DC woman was with her 23-year-old cousin and a group of others as they crossed Alabama Avenue, SE, around 8 PM. The pedestrians had the right of way. A moment later, two dirt bikes came speeding toward the group. At least one of them popped a wheelie. The woman soon realized her younger cousin had never made it to the curb along with the rest of the group. The rider of the dirt bike popped a wheelie and caught the younger cousin's shirt in the handlebars of the bike. The impact threw the young woman into the path of an oncoming vehicle, partially pinning her under the tires. The woman suffered extensive injuries.

How You Can Help: Bonus 2 Phone Us: Off Road

"Bonus to Phone Us: Off Road" is a program that offers DC residents the ability to call 911 when they know the location of an illegal ATV or dirt bike in Washington, DC. If the information results in the confiscation of an illegal dirt bike or ATV, the caller will be authorized to receive a $500 reward. In addition, callers can also call in information directly to the CIC and will receive a reward if it leads to a confiscation.

How It Works

Let's say you see an ATV or dirt bike being operated illegally in the District of Columbia. You call the MPD's Command Information Center at (202) 727-9099 to report the incident and provide a description of the vehicle, its operator, and the location where it is being driven.
